NEW AND OLD OWLS AND DOVES OF PAKİSTANİ POLİTİCS...

New and old owls and doves of Pakistani politics...

Abu Hayan Saeed

In the recent past, most of the Khans (tribal chiefs) of the former North West Frontier Province of Pakistan used to keep professional assassins, who were used for many other tasks besides eliminating their opponents. Then times changed and a lot changed.

There is a Pashto proverb that is now obsolete that "Khans will be killed by their own professional assassins."

And in fact, it used to happen that the pet assassins of Khans would rebel uncontrollably and would become greedy for the lives of Khans.

The Pakistani military establishment was fed up with the two-party political system because it was sending army chiefs around the world like beggars for alms. Sometimes they were seen begging for two or three billion dollars in front of the Saudis, sometimes they were seen standing in front of the rulers of Dubai and Abu Dhabi for aid, sometimes they were seen standing with their hands outstretched in front of the IMF for a loan. The whole world was watching these beggars.

The important thing is that the military establishment, which has always had an evergreen position in all matters of Pakistan, does not even want true democracy from its heart. It wants all the owls and doves to sing on the same branch of democracy that sprouts from the GHQ. An owl or a dove sitting on a branch of GHQ sang its song and was made a shunned shrine, but then after apologizing, GHQ started planting seeds again, but it is not known what is included in GHQ's seeds that every owl or dove becomes a rebel again in a few years. After all, GHQ prepared for many years to raise a new owl instead of the tried owls, many journalists, Sufis and all kinds of media worked for years to shape the minds of the public, even the judges left no stone unturned, and finally GHQ, after many years of relentless efforts, lifted the bricks here and there and brought the new owl to the throne.

GHQ also deployed a whole battalion of its small owls around the big owl sitting on the throne to monitor the new owl. The battalion of small owls deployed by GHQ had their own big interests, in these interests the GHQ officials were also a part of, otherwise someone would have given someone a free lunch!
Now, there is no time to explain in detail which complex and hidden organizations were openly running their schemes, along with witchcraft, but nothing special could be delivered from the new owl, rather the pigeons that had climbed up the face of the new owl were showing big works, of which GHQ was not even getting a share. In any case, a decision had to be made to change this new owl. The old, worn-out political owls who had enjoyed power many times were immediately happy with the change, but the young voters did not like the dethronement of their sacred owl and they made their sacred owl win with a huge majority in the general elections, so the GHQ was forced to take the stick of Form 47 and gave power to both the old owls on strict terms by making an alliance.

Now the matter has reached this point that the new hybrid system is very scary.New constitutional amendments, new courts, new military positions, new exceptions, new laws are being made so that some miracle happens, the sky becomes kind and may their wishes come true.
But there is a very very huge BUT ..because victory chances are less then infinity for this regimen change Gang.

The last point is a bit serious, read it with a calm heart.

Someone had said that if you want to kill a fool, just give him a rope, he will do the next thing himself.
